

Stella Soleil

Stella is a visionary, a singer, songwriter, performer, and artist developer, that is able to form really strong artists collectives, to achieve amazing and beautiful creative content.

Stella Soleil, formerly Sister Soleil, (Universal Records in 1997) featured fellow musician and producer Howie Beno (Blondie, Portishead, and Ministry). Sister Soleil's music reached thousands of fans and can be heard in the soundtrack of Kiss the Girls, starring Morgan Freeman and Ashley Judd.

Universal expanded Stella's market with a pop album and rebranded Stella from Sister Soleil to Stella Soleil. Her first single, "Kiss Kiss," reached #7 on the top 40 charts and is still popular among her fans.

Stella returned to Universal as A&R in 2005, bringing the label bands that would later make it big. However the artist inside her was screaming to return as a performer. Stella joined the band "Dirty Little Rabbits" in 2007, temporarily satisfying her hunger for songwriting, the stage, and interaction with her fans, but the truly amazing thing was yet to happen. One day, while hanging out with members of the band, Stella co-wrote "Hello", "Hello" secured a new record deal for Stella, with The End Records/Sony. Ultimately Dirty Little Rabbits wanted to pursue the hard rock genre; "Hello" was buried on the album in favor of a much heavier initial single. The band continued to play huge events and venues and had a strong local fan base, but it wouldn't be the apex of Stella's creative journey.

Stella's popularity, look, and voice sparked the interest of many other artists through the years, resulting in a #1 hit in the Russian Federation with the artist Dolphin, and a #1 hit on the Chinese Karaoke Charts with her song "Pretty Young Thing".

Stella's collaborations include many titans of the industry: Peter Gabriel, Reba McIntyre, Trent Reznor, Billy Idol, Moby, Chino Moreno, Joe Gore, Jimmy Iovine, Thom Paninzo, Tony Swain, David Erickson, Murlyn Music, and the list goes on.

Today, Stella reinvents Stella Soleil! The newly recorded and arranged "Hello" benefits the fans, expertly crafted and polished by famed producer John Fryer (NIN, Cocteau Twins, Depeche Mode), together with Stella's selection and collaboration with some of the strongest musicians, and engineer Joseph Davis Castleberry (who would tie everything together) brings "Hello" back to the world. With its new pop-rock vibe, "Hello" is catchier than ever, and Stella returns with a sound that will blow fans away!

PRESS RELEASE

Stella Soleil, a multi #1 hit performing artist based in Chicago, is preparing to release the first single "HELLO" from her new upcoming album. Almost 14 years after Hello was originally written, Stella has decided to completely rework and record the song in an entirely new and exciting way. The song has a new hard hitting ethereal energy that will have you signing it after just one listen, thanks to a collaboration with John Fryer, (producer of Nine Inch Nails – Pretty Hate Machine and Cocteau Twins – Head Over Heels), engineer Joseph Davis Castleberry, and musicians from several major bands.

BIO

Stella Soleil, formerly Sister Soleil, (Universal Records in 1997) featured fellow musician and producer Howie Beno (Blondie, Portishead, and Ministry). Sister Soleil's music reached thousands of fans and can be heard in the soundtrack of Kiss the Girls," starring Morgan Freeman and Ashley Judd.

Universal expanded Stella's market with a pop album and rebranded Stella from Sister Soleil to Stella Soleil. Her first single, "Kiss Kiss," reached #7 on the top 40 charts and is still popular among her fans.

Stella returned to Universal as A&R in 2005, bringing the label bands that would later make it big. However the artist inside her was screaming to return as a performer. Stella joined the band "Dirty Little Rabbits" in 2007, temporarily satisfying her hunger for songwriting, the stage, and interaction with her fans, but the truly amazing thing was yet to happen. One day, while hanging out with members of the band, Stella co-wrote "Hello", "Hello" secured a new record deal for Stella, with The End Records/Sony. Ultimately Dirty Little Rabbits wanted to pursue the hard rock genre; "Hello" was buried on the album in favor of a much heavier initial single. The band continued to play huge events and venues and had a strong local fan base, but it wouldn't be the apex of Stella's creative journey.

Stella's popularity, look, and voice sparked the interest of many other artists through the years, resulting in a #1 hit in the Russian Federation with the artist Dolphin, and a #1 hit on the Chinese Karaoke Charts with her song "Pretty Young Thing".

Stella's collaborations include many titans of the industry: Peter Gabriel, Reba McIntyre, Trent Reznor, Billy Idol, Moby, Chino Moreno, Joe Gore, Jimmy Iovine, Thom Paninzo, Tony Swain, David Erickson, Murlyn Music, and the list goes on.

Today, Stella reinvents Stella Soleil! The newly recorded and arranged "Hello" benefits the fans, expertly crafted and polished by famed producer John Fryer (NiN, Cocteau Twins, Depeche Mode), together with Stella's selection and collaboration with some of the strongest musicians, and engineer Joseph Davis Castleberry (who would tie everything together) brings "Hello" back to the world. With its new pop-rock vibe, "Hello" is catchier than ever, and Stella returns with a sound that will blow fans away!

LINKS (Song and Social)

Site: StellaSoleilOfficial.com
Instagram : stellasoleil.official

CONTACT INFO

Tim Donahue (Legal/Management)
C: 312.929.9529
E: timothydonohue@gmail.com